CREPE

The advantages of Crepe Bandages are as follows: They cost much less than rubber bandages and elastic stockings; they can be washed repeatedly and laid aside for long periods without deterioration; being light and soft they allow for free circulation and escape of perspiration.

Directions for washing Crepe Bandages.—Wash in the usual manner with very hot water and soap; rinse in warm soft water, squeeze lightly, and dry without stretching or ironing. This preserves their full elasticity. Should a Crepe Bandage be used several times without washing, the elasticity will be slightly lessened thereby, but will be restored if the above directions are followed.

Shadforth Prescription Service is now able to supply Crepe Bandages as follows:—

GALVANO-ELECTRIC AND MAGNETIC BODY BELTS

Patrons frequently write to me about the merits of galvano-electric and magnetic belts which they have had offered to them at prices ranging from £3 3s. to £8 8s., and wish to know if we are able to supply at a more reasonable figure.

With regard to the uses of electricity, it cannot be denied that it does prove useful in the cure of certain ailments; this is easily seen by the fact that the best appointed hospitals use large and expensive apparatus daily.

As every student of science knows, a current of electricity is generated when two dissimilar metals are placed together, and this fact is now utilized to supply a constant current of electricity round the body of any person who requires it. This is simply done by placing dissimilar metals in a body belt and joining up the metals with wires. The strength of the current depends upon the numbers of pairs of small plates of dissimilar metals (batteries) used.

When electricity is used in this way it is said to stimulate circulation and metabolism; it carries away morbid products more rapidly than would otherwise be the case. Hence it is recommended in rheumatism, sciatica, gout, obesity, general debility, and where kidneys and liver need stimulation.

For the sake of those who would desire to test the benefits of a reliable belt, I have arranged with a leading manufacturer to supply as follows. The illustrations speak for themselves.

GALVANO-ELECTRIC BELTS

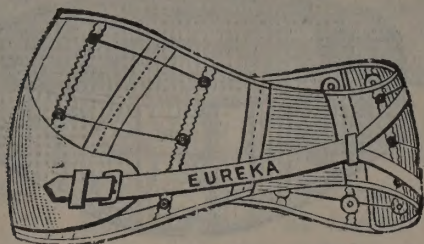

In these the battery consists of metal plates which are placed outside the material and are connected by wires.

ABDOMINAL AND SUPPORTING BELTS FOR LADIES AND GENTLEMEN

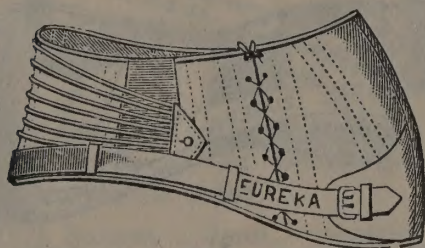

The support and comfort which a well-made belt affords is well known, and it is in response for inquiries for fuller information about the various belts we are able to supply, that we furnish the following particulars.

For many obese, and certain other persons, especially for ladies and gentlemen in middle or later life, a belt is a necessity; life without a belt would be almost unbearable; we can, therefore, truthfully say that a belt, while not only being an aid to health, provides many happy or at least comfortable hours which would otherwise be spent in misery.

The prices here given include postage in the British Isles (abroad extra) and apply only to belts which do not exceed 32 in. waist measurement, and 8 in. deep in front. Larger sizes are charged extra.

When ordering please give the stock number and the waist measurement. These prices are all subject to alteration without notice.
